Academic and union transversal outlook on the ILO: what are the ambitions for the second centenary? Paris, 23 September 2019

In 2019, the ILO will celebrate its 100th anniversary. This international organization created to promote social rights and social justice is unique in its structure due to the rule of tripartism, both at the international labour conference and on the board of directors. The strong presence of delegates from the "most representative" trade union organizations from each Member State and the importance of the international conventions concluded at the ILO' level on promotion and protection of freedom of association throughout the world establish a fundamental relationship between this international organization and trade unionism.

In view of its primary missions, the ISST naturally had the task of organizing an event devoted to the ILO.

The aim of this one-day conference is to bring together French and foreign academics, ILO members, members of trade unions and labour inspectors - the latter two being regular users and partners of ISST - for a joint reflection on the ambitions to be pursued by the ILO.

The axes defined below are the result of discussions that brought together academics, representatives of the three trade union organizations that are members of the ISST Board of Directors (CGT, CGT-FO and CFDT) as well as representatives of the DIRECCTE d'Île-de-France.

Participation in the event is free of charge.

The event may give rise to the publication of the proceedings of the symposium.

The proposals for interventions (15 lines) must respond to one of the topics proposed below. They must be written in English, French, Spanish, Portuguese or Italian and be sent, accompanied by the attached form, before 30th March 2019 to the following address: contact.oit-isst@univ-paris1.fr

A scientific committee has been set up to prepare the final program with the accepted abstracts. Proposals not selected for oral communication may be submitted to a poster.

The proceedings of the conference may be published
